Graham Kalton, PhD - Laureate of the Jerzy-Splawa Neyman Medal

Professor Graham Kalton, a Senior Vice President and Chairman of the Board of Directors of Westat, has had a distinguished career as a researcher and teacher in the area of survey statistics and methodology. He is a co-founder of the Joint Program in Survey Methodology at the University of Maryland, where he holds the title of research professor. Prior to joining Westat in 1992, he was a research scientist in the Survey Research Center, a professor of biostatistics, and a professor of statistics at the University of Michigan, where he served a term as chairman of the Department of Biostatistics. Dr. Kalton is co-author with Claus Moser of the second edition of Survey Methods in Social Investigation, published in 1971, a widely-acclaimed text that covers all aspects of survey research. He has published many papers on survey research, particularly in the areas of sampling methods for rare populations, weighting and imputation, and panel surveys. He served on the Committee for National Statistics (CNSTAT) of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences for 6 years and chaired or participated in several CNSTAT panels. He has also served on the Board of Scientific Counselors of the U.S. National Center for Health Statistics, the Federal Economic Statistics Advisory Committee, and Statistics Canada's Advisory Committee on Statistical Methods, which he now chairs. He has served as president of the International Association of Survey Statisticians. Dr. Kalton is a Fellow of the American Statistical Association, a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, an elected member of the International Statistical Institute, and a National Associate of the National Academies, National Research Council.
