this time as an international one. Apart from the experts from Poland, who were invited to the scientific committee, there were additionally several foreign experts. So the institutional development of this event follows.

from England. The disciplines: Okinawa Goju-Ryu karate and Yamanaka-Ha Shindo-Ryu jujutsu. The idea of teaching karate and jujutsu, as complementary disciplines, is very similar to the one implemented in the Idokan organisation and at the GM Lothar Sieber School.

New Publications / Nowe publikacje

Madsen, Lian Malai (2015), Fighters, Girls and Other Identities. Sociolinguistics in a Martial Arts Club, Multilingual Matters, Bristol – Buffalo – Toronto, 218 pp. History and ideas of taekwondo have been cited in an informal version, without reference to the latest state of knowledge. However, it is sufficient for the description of the Sociolinguistics in a Martial Arts Club phenomenon. More on the topic will be published in the "Journal of Linguistic Anthropology" (review article by W.J. Cynarski), soon.

Nagy Istvan, Maczuga Tomasz (2015), Methodological Handbook for Defendo Alliance trainers / Przewodnik metodyczny dla instruktorów organizacji Defendo Aliance, Defendo Polska, Warszawa, part 1 – Theoretical basics, 28 pp., part 2 – Hard target, 80 pp. [in Polish].

In international cooperation, a two-volume methodological handbook of the Defendo system, founded by Jyrki Saario, has been published. The book is well written, and even better illustrated; worth recommending. In brief it is about teaching self-defence in practice.

"Acta Taekwondo et Martialis Artium", 2017, vol. 4, no. 2. "Journal of International Association for Taekwondo Research" has changed its name. The first new issue contains papers from the conference in Muju '2017, e.g. article by W. J. Cynarski and John A. Johnson: Taekwondo and Korean martial arts in the Idokan Poland Association's research (1993-2016): a review (pp. 21-28).

“Didactics of Literature and Contexts”, 2017, vol. 36, 126 pp. [in Polish].

In March 2018 this new issue was published. It contains e.g.: a short text but with fundamental for Western civilisation problem of values Catholic hierarchy of values by A. Szyszko-Bohusz (pp. 19-20); a concept of Contemporary training in combat sports and martial arts pathway by W.J. Cynarski (39-48), Significance of methodology in scholarly research of Wojciech Pasterniak by W. Hladkiewicz (105-108); and a review of the New paradigmatic pedagogics written by E. Kobylecka (111-114).

“Gdansk Studies of East Asia”, 2017, no. 12.

In January 2018 a new issue of this Journal, which is published at the University of Gdansk, was issued. It contains two articles on martial arts: by W. J. Cynarski: The traditionally understanding of karate-do as an educational system: application of the martial arts' pedagogy, pp. 7-20; and by Krzysztof Brzozowski: Jin in kung-fu – physical basics, pp. 142-157.

Kowalski Mariusz (2017), Aryans, Slavs, Poles. The ancient heritage of Miedzymorze / Ariowie, Słowianie, Polacy. Pradawne dziedzictwo Miedzymorza, Biblioteka Wolności, Warsaw, 286 pp. [in Polish].

The author presents, in an interdisciplinary approach, the prehistory of Poland and Miedzymorze. He points to the Aryans as the ancestors of the Slavs, especially contemporary Poles, who originally lived in areas east of the Elbe from around 2000 BC. He also notes that the population of the Miedzymorze countries (and the eastern part of present-day Germany) is genetically related. He adds an interesting interpretation from the perspective of geopolitics, the theory of civilisation and futurology. This popular science book on some controversial theses is noteworthy, for instance, because it offers a new intergenerational genetic identification to the nations of Miedzymorze.

Michalko M., Demkova L., Buczek-Kowalik M., Mitura T. (2017), Complex analysis of the potential of rural tourism development in the Polish-Slovak border region, Interreg, Rzeszow, 224 pp.

This is an effect of the Interreg Project, made by Polish and Slovak scientists. This is a description and analysis of the border area of Poland and Slovakia. Monuments of military culture and the art of fortifications have been fairly poorly exposed.

Nakiri Fuminori et al. (2017) [eds.], Proceedings of the 2017 International Budo Conference by the JAB, Sept. 6-8, 2017, Osaka, 205 pp.

A set of extended abstracts from the conference was published, which was also an IMACSSS conference. These are in particular empirical and contributing works concerning Japanese MA & CS.

Wojdon Wieslaw (2017), Iwierzycy commune in the past and today. Monographic sketch / Gmina Iwierzycy dawniej i dzis. Szkic monograficzny, Iwierzycy, self-edition, 314 pp. [in Polish].

The author is a sociologist, a local and social activist. He published a book that is an interesting contribution to regional studies. It contains e.g. information about a large IPA martial arts show in Bystrzyca in 1998 (p. 159), but the master degree of sensei Cynarski in karate is given as if a prophecy (10 dan, p. 250).

“Central European Journal of Sport Sciences and Medicine”, 4/2017, and 1/2018.

The cover of the issue 4/2017 features a karateka. However, there is nothing on MA&CS inside. Whereas in the issue 1/2018 (with another cover) we can find a text by: Cynarski W.J., Pawelec P., Yu J.H., Vit M., Slopecki J., Bielec G., Kubala K. (2018), Perception of Success among People Practising Martial Arts and Combat Sports, “Central European Journal of Sport Sciences and Medicine”, vol. 21, no. 1, pp. 67–75; doi: 10.18276/cej.2018.1-08. It is good that these topics appear at least incidentally. A quoted article by Cynarski et al. is a contribution to knowledge about ‘perception of success’ according the POSQ tool.

Borza P., Rejman K., Blazejewski W., Rejman B. (2018) [eds.], Intercultural education – ideas, concepts, inspirations / Edukacja międzykulturowa – idee, koncepcje, inspiracje, PWSTE, Jaroslaw, 100 pp. [in Polish].

As an outcome of the project, a part of the Interreg V-A Poland-Slovakia 2014-2020 programme, a book was published as teaching materials for students. In ten chapters, the team of authors present the basic knowledge on current topics related to ideology and the reality of interculturality.

Cynarski W.J. (2018), Current problems of the sociology of martial arts according to the Rzeszow School, “Arrancada”, vol. 18, no. 4, pp. 315-335.

This is an article about scientific effects of activity at the Rzeszow School of the martial arts sociology. Prof. Cynarski, the leader, presented some aspects and directions of this scientific School.

Cynarski W.J., Szajna G. [eds.] (2018), 4th World Scientific Congress of Combat Sports and Martial Arts and 7th IMACSSS International Conference Abstract Book, Rzeszow, Oct. 17-19, IMACSSS, Rzeszow. ISBN 978-83-7996-585-4, 102 pp.

50 extended abstracts can be found here, submitted for the Congress indicated in the title. The whole is complemented by three introductions, Prof. F. Nakiri's CV – the keynote speaker, photos with invited grand masters, and the Index of Authors.

Cynarski W.J., Wasik J., Szymczyk D., Vences de Brito A. (2018), Changes in foot pressure on the ground during mae-geri kekomi (front kick) in karate athlete – case study, "Physical Education of Students", vol. 22, no. 1, pp. 12-16; doi: 10.15561/20755279.2018.0102.

The second work was published as the result of Polish-Portuguese research carried out under the auspices of the IMACSSS. This time, they are studies of the Idokan style karate, using a strain gauge platform.

Debek, Boguslaw Andrzej (2018), Slavic History, Bellona, Warsaw, 327 pp. + advertising [in Polish].

A new book has been published that popularises the latest knowledge about the cultures of warriors among the Aryo-Slavic peoples. This is a synthesising approach, although one may have doubts about some theses, such as assigning some peoples to Germanic or Slavic tribes. On the other hand, one may agree with the thesis that the ancestors of today's Slavs were a people of war democracy, and Great Scythia had a significant influence on the beginnings of Polish statehood.

Historical knowledge about the heroes of World War II is popularised in mass culture by two new films about Polish airmen participating in the Battle of Britain. These are: 1) Squadron 303. True Story, Polish production, 2018, directed by: Denis Delic, screenplay: J. Samojłowicz, K. Burdza, length: 99 minutes; 2) Hurricane: Squadron 303, UK & Poland, directed by David Blair, screenplay: A. Galbraith, R. Ryan, 105 minutes. Both films are worth seeing as they show the historical truth about the air fighters.

Kogel Helmut (2018), Kyusho Jutsu. Basics, most important points, 2nd edn., Blurb, Lippstadt, 111 pp.

Prof. Dr Kogel, a student of Dr T. Hokama (10 dan) and holder of 8 dan degree in kyushojutsu, published the new edition of his book. He presents anatomical and medical approaches of the old practical knowledge that was shown in Bubishi in symbolic and general issue only.

Malolepszy E., Kosiewicz J., Organista N. (2018) [eds.], The latest history of physical culture and tourism in Poland and Europe (in the 19-20th centuries) / Z najnowszych dziejow kultury fizycznej i turystyki w Polsce i Europie (w okresie XIX-XX wieku), Uniwersytet Humanistyczno-Przyrodniczy im. J. Długosza w Częstochowie, Częstochowa, 177 pp. [in Polish].

This book has got mainly a historical profile, it contains a variety of works by different authors. The only chapter dedicated to the phenomenon of MA&CS here is: Szajna G., Cynarski W.J., Jubilee 95th Anniversary of Polish Fencing Federation (21-40).

Maroteaux Roland J. (2018a), Les maitres qui m'ont appris..., self-edition, Avignon, 160 pp. [in French].

The author talks about his 12 masters of martial arts. Some taught him, others promoted to master degrees in various martial arts. This is a contribution to the analysis of the transmission line of knowledge and the legitimacy of the competences held.

Maroteaux Roland J. (2018b), L'art martial traditionnel est avant tout unsavoir faire, "Dragon Magazine", no. 36, pp. 74-78 [in French].

Dr Maroteaux specialises in physical stability during a fight (cf.: The Mobile Stability of the Body, 2012). Here he explains it for the readers of the Dragon Magazine.

Pivovarnik Jan (2018), Dual concentration in karate and its possible use in sport diagnostics, LAP, Beau Bassin, 182 pp.

The author (karateka, 5 dan) focuses on coaching and sport training. However, he does not know scientific literature created in the IMACSSS. Perhaps the Lambert Academic Publishing from Mauritius supports researchers who are away from the mainstream.

Pylat Volodymyr (2018), Бойовуу Хорак. Жобтяк, Spolom, Lviv, 408 pp [in Ukrainian].

The author is GM of the Boyovyy Hopak, and his book is a manual for teaching it. This is a study referring to the Cossack tradition, but with a much modernised content. This school refers to the hero of Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth – Petro Konashevych-Sahaidachny (1582-1622), a Cossack Hetman.

Rejman K., Rejman B. (2018) [eds.], Problems and challenges of intercultural education in the common area of the Polish-Slovak border / Problemy i wyzwania edukacji międzykulturowej na wspólnym obszarze pogranicza polsko-słowackiego, PWSTE, Jarosław, 489 pp. [in Polish, with English abstracts].

The problem of international and interregional challenges and cooperation is analysed here in various aspects, from the perspective of different methodological and ideological approaches. 38 studies constitute chapters of the book, divided into six thematic sections. The whole book was reviewed by professors W.J. Cynarski and Jozef Matulnik.

Swider Pawel, Cynarski W.J., Kubala Krzysztof (2018), Tourism of martial arts and combat sports among academics / Turystyka sztuk walki i sportow walki wsrod pracownikow naukowych, "Rozprawy Naukowe AWF we Wrocławiu", no. 62, pp. 20-28 [in Polish].

The authors from the Rzeszow School of Science present a comparative analysis of selected examples of martial arts tourism with an emphasis on logistics problems. The study concerns foreign scientific trips to events related to martial arts research.
